

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

• Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Tell me a little about yourself!

Learning Outcome

Describe hypothetical situations in written and spoken interactions according to work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- How many jobs do you think you'll have in your lifetime?
- Why do you think that?
- What are your long range goals?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about emotions, opinions and behavior in a work situation.
- I can ask for clarification and ask for someone's opinion.
- I can discuss hopes and plans about career goals.

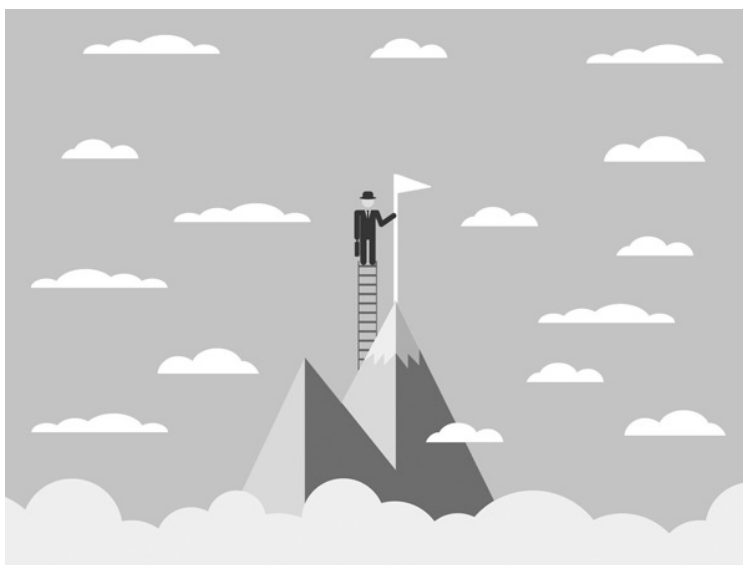

Let's Explore!

Some new technology is very innovative

* A new, creative idea can be thought of as "innovative".

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

So I have a strategy of how to find a job I am passionate about, and I need to make a timeline to help me set my goals. I give myself four months. After that, I will need to tighten my belt. It never is easy when the money runs out, is it?

In my first month, I will have found my big problem that I am going to solve. I will have identified a field that I am interested in and I will have explored work opportunities in that area. It sounds like a daunting task, doesn't it? However, in order to find my dream job, I need to establish where my interests lie.

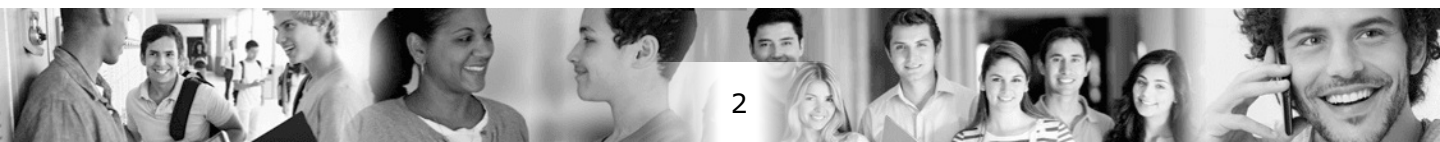

In month two, I will have made a list of companies that are trying to solve my problem and hopefully, share my interests. I will have researched each company and combed their web pages for job listings.

Then, in my third month, I will have searched my circle of friends to see who is connected to my target companies. It does sound silly, doesn't it? Nonetheless, establishing contacts already in the company is a great way to discover more about the organization.

Finally in month four, I will have created a résumé that is innovative and will capture people's attention. In the résumé, I will have highlighted how my passion can help the company meet its aspirations.

All of this won't help, will it? I have to stay positive.

I can do this, can't I?

Let's Practice!

You can complete the question, can't you?

Instructions: Read the questions. Complete them with the correct tag.

1. It is never easy when the money runs out, _____?
2. It sounds like a daunting task, _____?
3. It does sound silly, _____?
4. All of this won't help, _____?
5. I can do this, _____?

Let's Practice!

Can you organize John's plans?

Instructions: Match one of the beginnings 1 - 5 with one of the endings a - e to complete each sentence coherently. Write the letter of the ending next to its corresponding half.

1. In my first month, I will have found _____
 2. I will have identified a field _____
 3. I will have researched each company _____
 4. Finally in month four, I will have created _____
 5. In the résumé, I will have highlighted how my passion _____
-
- a. and combed their web pages for job listings.
 - b. my big problem that I am going to solve.
 - c. a résumé that is innovative and will capture people's attention.
 - d. that I am interested in.
 - e. can help the company meet its aspirations.

Extension Activity

Can I check your information?

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Create and fill out a standard job application form online; name, age, address, phone number, previous job, and why you want to work for the company.
- Swap the forms with another partner and role-play.
- One partner will be the boss asking for clarification and an opinion using tag questions.
- The other partner will be the applicant and correct his/her information.
- Switch roles.
- Afterwards, try and add more complex categories to the application form and role-play again.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I use tag questions to clarify information.

☐ ☐

I write an application form inquiring about information.

☐ ☐

I perform a role-play using the target grammar, tag questions.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to tighten your belt (expression): to try to save money by buying less e.g. I will need to tighten my belt.
- to comb (verb): to arrange e.g. I will have researched each company and combed their web pages for job listings.
- daunting (adjective): causing fear or doubt in one's abilities
e.g. It sounds like a daunting task, doesn't it?
- nonetheless (adverb): however e.g. Nonetheless, establishing contacts already in the company is a great way to discover more about the organization.
- innovative (adjective): new; original e.g. I will have created a resume that is innovative and will capture people's attention.
- aspirations (noun): ambitions
e.g. I will have highlighted how my passion can help the company meet its aspirations.
- circle of friends (noun): a group of close friends
e.g. I will have searched my circle of friends to see who is connected to my target companies.

Learning Points

Tag Questions

You use tag questions to ask for clarification and confirmation.

Tag questions are short questions that are added at the end of statements.

You mostly use tag questions in spoken English when you want to:

- clarify/confirm whether something is true or not true, or
- to encourage a response from someone you are talking to.

1. An affirmative statement is followed by a negative question tag.
Use this when you think the other person will agree by saying 'yes'

- You were taken by surprise, weren't you?
- You are Canadian, aren't you?
- She has a brother, doesn't she?
- He can speak English, can't he?

1. A negative statement is followed by an affirmative question tag.
Use this when you think the other person will agree by saying 'no'

- You weren't taken by surprise, were you?
- You aren't Canadian, are you?
- She doesn't have a brother, does she?
- He can't speak English, can he?

If the main verb is to be or a modal verb, the tag will be the same.

For all other main verbs, use the tag do/does or did/didn't.

Look at the examples in the chart.

Main Verb	Tag	Main Verb	Tag
He is/was	isn't/wasn't he?	She has/had	doesn't/didn't she?
You are	aren't you?	You have	don't you?
He can	can't he?	He likes	doesn't he?
We could	couldn't we?	You like	don't you?
You will	won't you?	You liked	didn't you?

Examples:

- It never is easy when the money runs out, is it?

Learning Points

- It sounds like a daunting task, doesn't it?
- All of this won't help, will it?
- I can do this, can't I?

The Future Tense vs. The Future Perfect Tense

You use the Future tense (will) to talk about a one-time action or event that will happen in the future.

You use the Future Perfect tense to talk about a future action that will be completed before another action in the future. This tense is used to clarify the order of events that will occur in the future.

The Future Perfect tense is similar to the Present Perfect tense, but your perspective is in the future instead of the present.

For example:

I will arrive at work at 7:45 a.m. We can start the meeting at 8:00 a.m. I will have arrived at the office by 8:00.

The plane will take off at 9:00 a.m. You will arrive at the airport at 9:15 a.m. When you arrive, the plane will have taken off.

Look at the chart for the structure of the Future Perfect tense:

subject	will	(not) have	past participle
I	will	have	found
I	will	have	created
He	will	not have	searched

*Notice the position of not. It comes between will and have.

Examples:

- In my first month, I will have found my big problem that I am going to solve.
- I will have identified a field that I am interested in and I will have explored work opportunities in that area.
- In month two, I will have made a list of companies that are trying to solve my problem and hopefully, share my interests.
- I will have researched each company and combed their web pages for job listings.
- Then, in my third month, I will have searched my circle of friends to see who is connected to my target companies.
- Finally in month four, I will have created a resume that is innovative and will capture people's attention.
- In the resume, I will have highlighted how my passion can help the company meet its aspirations.

